As Chief of the Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section, in the UN Department of Global Communications, Jeff Brez oversees relations with non-governmental organizations, the Messengers of Peace Programme, the Creative Community Outreach Initiative and Special Events. His work is international humanitarian aid and development assistance has spanned more than a decade and covered a range of issues including children’s and women’s rights, refugee assistance, child soldiers, health, education, sustainable agriculture and food security, environmental sustainability, anticorruption and climate change.

Hawa Diallo, Chief of Unit, Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section, UN Department of Global Communications has extensive United Nations experience in public information outreach and fostering civil society partnerships, with a particular emphasis on youth and women’s organizations. Hawa Diallo began her United Nations career in 1987 in the Department of Public Information and has served in two United Nations Peacekeeping Operations in Cambodia and Somalia, respectively. She has also worked for the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN Habitat) in Nairobi, as an Associate Human Settlements Officer and as a Partners and Youth Officer.

Programme Management Officer, Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section, Department of Global Communications. Following four years as Chief of Group Programmes and Public Inquiries in UN Visitors Services, Kathryn Good has returned to the Civil Society Unit in the UN Department of Global Communications, where she now oversees civil society liaison functions in support of High Level Meetings and Events organized by the EOSG, DSG, PGA and other UN entities. From 2010-2013, Kathryn managed English language and communications programmes globally for the UN Secretariat. Prior to joining the UN, Kathryn was Director of International Programs and Language Area Studies at Brown University for ten years. Kathryn has held academic appointments at Boston University, Middlebury-Monterey Institute of International Studies, Brown University, the University of Rhode Island and Georgetown University and has taught a range of courses in UN peacekeeping operations and in schools and universities around the world.
Felipe Queipo is an Associate Public Information Officer at the Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section within the Department of Global Communications. Felipe began his United Nations career at the NGO Relations & Advocacy Section of the Department of Public Information in 2008. He is currently the focal point for technology and social media efforts, as well as Faith-Based Organizations at the Civil Society Unit in DGC. A strong advocate of new communications tools and their role in developing effective strategies, he believes in developing social media policies to increase the efficacy of outreach efforts for NGOs. Before Graduating from Brigham Young University where he majored in Political Science, Felipe Queipo studied Theology and Biology in Spain, emphasizing his training on Political and Social Theology.

Swati Dave, Public Information Assistant, Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section, Department of Global Communications. Swati Dave started her career at the United Nations in 1994 with the Department of Public Information. She worked in several sections of the department before joining the Unit in 2014. She has 20 plus years of experience working with Civil Society, Academia and other Institutions, in planning and organizing their events at United Nations Headquarters.

Victoria Gorelik, Public Information Assistant, Civil Society, Advocacy and Special Events Section, joined the UN Department of Global Communications in 2017. She facilitates the Civil Society Unit’s online communications being the focal point for the Unit’s website, newsletter ‘Weekly Announcements’ and the Unit’s social media presence. In addition, she is assisting the process of the formal Association of civil society organizations and the mandatory Annual Review of the organizations associated with the Department of Global Communications. Prior to joining the United Nations Secretariat, she has had worked at the Council of Europe’ Program Office in Moscow where she experienced working with local civil society actors and became familiar with the key global topics, such as human rights and the rule of law. Victoria holds advanced degrees in Linguistics and Human Communication Studies. Her native language is Russian.