Ending the AIDS Epidemic by 2030
How can civil society revitalize the response?

This Briefing is organized in collaboration with UNAIDS on the occasion of World AIDS Day

Moderator
Padmini Murthy, Global Health Director, New York Medical College and Medical Women’s International Association NGO Representative to the United Nations DPI

Speakers
Simon Bland, Director, UNAIDS New York Office
Eric Sawyer, Founding Member of ACT UP and co-founder of Housing Works & Health GAP
Deborah Levine, Executive Director, Love Heals
Molly McHugh, Communications Director, GrassrootSoccer

RSVP
Thursday, 1 December 2016
1:15 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Trusteeship Council Chamber
UN Headquarters
New York

Notorious in the 1980s but less under the spotlight today, 2.1 million people became newly infected with HIV last year and 1.1 million people died of AIDS-related causes – contributing to the 35 million people who have lost their lives to AIDS since the start of the epidemic. What can you do to ensure prevention? And how can we work together to end the AIDS epidemic by 2030, as committed to by 193 governments globally in the Sustainable Development Goals?

UNAIDS New York Office
UN DPI NGO Relations @UNDPINGO #DPINGO